Heidenreich Innovations, LLC Launches New Services on Q88.com

Greenwich, (Connecticut) - Heidenreich Innovations LLC. ("Heidenreich") announced today, August 3, 2009, the launch of new services to help ship brokers, charterers, agents and other industry participants get the most out of the industry-leading database of tanker information, www.Q88.com.

These new fee-based services will give users advanced search capabilities allowing for granular searching of the database along with the ability to save searches for retrieval at a later time. The new services will also allow full visibility of changes to vessel particulars and customized lists of vessel particulars for chartering recaps.

Fritz Heidenreich, President, said, "Ship owners and managers use www.Q88.com on a daily basis to complete the questionnaires required for commercial and vetting purposes. This ensures that the data published on our system by the owners is the most updated source of information available. We are very excited about the launch of these new features which we have been working on for over a year."

The www.Q88.com web site was launched in 2001. There are currently 640 questionnaires available, which are being used by over 430 ship owners representing 5,500 vessels. The system also hosts 7,000 individual charter party clauses, a distance calculator and numerous other features.

The www.Q88.com web site can be accessed for more information.
